The Shelton Faculty News is an intercampus newsletter designed to bring about better communication between the technical and junior college faculties of our college. It will be issued bi-weekly and will contain faculty news items and information.

Coordinators of this newsletter will be Wayne Boteler on the Technical Campus and Debbie Grimes on the Junior College Campus. If you have recently attended professional meetings, visited other campuses, or have family news you'd like to share with your colleagues, please contact one of the coordinators.

Ralph Prewitt, electronics instructor, and his wife, Sue, have recently opened Sue's Flower Shop in Northport. Ralph is reported to work really well in the water since the flood!

 Mrs. Phyllis Richerson, English instructor and director of the Learning Lab at the Junior College Division, has been offered two summer seminar fellowships by the National Endowment for the Humanities. Mrs. Richerson was selected from applications submitted in national competition. She has elected to accept the seminar entitled "Standard English: Social Control or Individual Freedom," which will be conducted by Professor James Sledd at the University of Texas at Austin.

Kaye Watts, cosmetology instructor, attended the state convention of the Alabama Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. Two Shelton students entered the Student Total Fashion Competition, which included dress, make-up, and hair style. The convention was held April 21-23 in Birmingham at the Plaza South Hotel.

Dr. Wayne McCullar, Associate Dean and Director of the Extended Day Program at the Junior College Division, has announced his resignation. He has been called as pastor to First Baptist Church of Crystal Springs, Mississippi. The Junior College Division will certainly miss Dr. McCullar when he leaves.

Sarah Jane Sumner, daughter of President and Mrs. Leo Sumner, and Shardell Fredd, daughter of Mrs. Euradell Fredd, nursing instructor, are among thirty-two exchange students from Tuscaloosa High School visiting Washington, D.C., and Palmyra, Pennsylvania, this week.

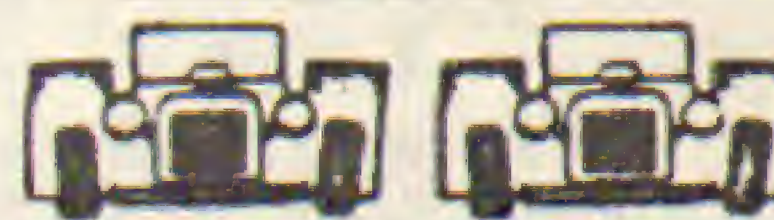

The Junior College Division faculty and administration honored their support staff with a covered dish luncheon in the Student Center on Wednesday, April 25, during National Secretary's Week.

Arthur Howington, Dean of the Junior College, has had a review of volumes six and seven of the Booker T. Washington Papers published in the April edition of the Alabama Review.

On April 27, Crawford King presented a paper entitled "The End of the Open Range: Alabama Fencing and Stock Laws" at the Alabama Historical Association meeting in Troy. Mr. King, a part-time instructor at the Junior College Division, teaches the new course in Alabama history.

Bill Ross, instructor in automotive mechanics, is now back at work after being in the hospital for several weeks. Welcome back, Bill!

Wade Cooper, Biology instructor and chairperson of the Math-Sciences Division at the Junior College Division, has been invited by the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics at Livingston University to visit their campus on May 5 for the purpose of helping Livingston's science department develop in-service training programs in teaching and counseling science students.

A consulting team composed of Dr. Phil Turner of the University of Alabama Graduate School of Library Service, Ms. Judy Shepherd of Wallace State Community College, and Mr. Ed Blake of Bessemer Technical College visited both campuses on April 24. The purpose of their visit was to make recommendations on broadening present library services to cover all aspects of the community college.

In their report, which was generally favorable, the team commended the librarians for their "optimum utilization of funding for collection development." They made several suggestions including centralization of ordering and processing and the organization of a facility for media design and production for both college divisions.

An inter-campus faculty-staff cook book is being compiled by Jim Jolly, English instructor, and Debbie Grimes, librarian, at the Junior College Division. They know that there are a lot of good cooks at the Junior College Division and suspect (based on cookies sampled at the faculty meeting held in the bomb shelter) that the same is true of the Technical Division. Please send your tried-and-true recipes (or your husband's or wife's) to Jim or Debbie.

Everyone who sends a recipe will receive a copy of the cook book when it is completed. Please be sure to include your name with your recipes.
